

Mammoth Hospital Welcomes new Revenue Cycle Manager to the Team

By Ehren Goetz, PR Assistant

Mammoth Hospital is pleased to announce the acquisition of new Revenue Cycle Manager, David Bolton. Coming to Mammoth from Truckee, California, Bolton brings the knowledge and determination needed to improve the efficiency of Mammoth Hospital's billing procedures.

Bolton has worked for seven different hospitals and consulting over the last 33 years including Director of Patient Financial Services for Tahoe Forest Hospital District, and Patient Account Manager for Bonner General Hospital in Sandpoint, Idaho.

Bolton says he likes the challenge of working for organizations with the opportunity to improve on existing policies. He saw this opportunity offered with Mammoth Hospital, and is now heading several ongoing projects for maximizing that potential.

"Work in any field is a constant learning experience," says Bolton, often using his proficiency to mentor colleagues on the subject of finance and customer service.

Bolton among other goals, seeks to improve customer service and patient billing throughout the hospital and its clinics. Unassuming, Bolton attributes the success of accomplishing these goals to teamwork.

While not hard at work, Bolton enjoys spending time with his wife, Debbie, the outdoors, sailing, going for walks, and kayaking around the Mammoth Lakes area.
